For my "mobile" stuff on runs, I have a panasonic digital recorder. small and easy to place in a pocket, it works great. i recently bought a lapel mic from Radio shack that is really nice. The problem with this recorder is that it doesn't work with MACs so i cannot just plug it in and download. I have to use Panasonic Voice studio software to convert it to a wav file, then audacity to get a mp3. Then I can import to Garage Band on my Mac. For all inside stuff, i have a pair of Altec Lansing headphones. headset mic and use garage band. I'd like to eventually get a micro recorder that works directly with MACs but I am cheap, so I'll have to wait.
